Two Strikes End, Outlook Brightens

Dockers, Mo-Pac To Work

U. S. Action In Steel, Coal Due

(By United Press)

The nation's critical labor situation took a definite turn for the better today as Missouri Pacific railroadmen and Hawaiian longshoremen ended their strikes and President Truman prepared to intervene in the coal and steel walkouts.

The Missouri Pacific railroad expected to have some passenger trains operating over its 11-state system by tomorrow as 5,000 conductors, engineers, trainmen and firemen ended the strike they began 45 days ago to force settlement of 282 long-standing grievances.

The strike cost the road $36,000,000 in revenues and the workers about $1,400,000 in lost wages. The strike had idled 20,000 other Mo-Pac employes and several thousands in communities which relied on the railroad for train service.

Aboat 2,000 CIO longshoremen in Hawaii won wage increases that will total 21 cents per hour by March 1. They had struck last May 1 for a 32 cent raise. At that time, the best offer by the island stevedore firms was 12 cents.

U. S. TO ACT

The territorial government seized the docks during the strike to prevent a critical emergency.

Federal labor experts predicted, meanwhile, that President Truman will take personal action to end the steel and coal disputes, if they are not settled by Thursday.

White House informants said Mr. Truman might use a Taft-Hartley injunction to send John L. Lewis' United Mine workers back into the pits before cold weather creates serious hardships.

In the steel dispute, they said, he probably would call industry officials to Washington and urge them to accept the fact-finding board's report which recommended that the CIO steelworkers give up demands for a wage boost while the firms paid for a 10-cent hourly package pension and welfare program.

Unless the big disputes are settled this week, 2,000,000 workers will be idled, the government said.

The impact of the two disputes was hitting a hard blow at the nation's economy.

Michigan authorities called an emergency meeting for tomorrow as 300,000 workers were threatened with lay-offs due to curtailed production in the auto industry. General motors said six plants were on a four-day week to conserve steel and coal and that other factories would cut production at the end of the month. Chrysler expected to close Nov. 1 and Ford on Nov. 15.

Says Permit Cost $4,000

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Ohio's liquor enforcement director said today a Clevelander claims he paid $4,000 to a Republican in 1946 for a private club liquor permit and charter.

Private permits, called D-4's, legitimately cost $200. Enforcement chief Anthony A. Rutkowski declined to name the "Republican" who purportedly collected $4,000 for one.

But the time of the issuance would place it during the closing days of Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche's previous administration, when there was a heavy run on private permits.

Rutkowski said the statement on this alleged deal was signed by Leonard C. Fletcher, commander of the Old Sarge Garrison No. 211, army and navy union. Fletcher, he declared, says he put up the money but his permit was voided in April by the liquor board.

Because of this claim, the enforcement chief ordered an immediate investigation into the activities of the 28 Army and Navy union garrisons with liquor permits in Ohio.

Church Has Tavern On Its Hands

KNIGHTSTOWN, Ind. — (INS) — Some eyebrows were lifted in Knightstown today with the announcement that the town's Methodist church had become landlord of a tavern.

The church and the tavern became financially connected when Charles O'Malley, a cigar store owner who died three weeks ago, bequeathed his property to the church.

O'Malley's property included a tavern which has a five-year lease on its quarters. Church trustees still were undecided whether they would keep the tavern the operator of which now must pay rent to the church.

Expect City To Escape Rail Cuts

Agents See Little Effect In Mansfield

While the cut in railroad passenger train service effective tomorrow, is not expected to affect Mansfield, New York Central today announced two trains serving Shelby aand Galion will be suspended.

The suspension followed an order by the Interstate Commerce commission requiring all railroads to make a 25 per cent cut in coal-burning locomotives because of the nation-wide coal shortage.

The Erie and Pennsylvania railroads, serving Mansfield, use diesel-powered locomotives and agents expect no change in operations. The B. and O., which uses coal, said no service reduction order has been received here.

The trains serving Shelby and Galion, which were suspended, are the 9:51 a. m. Cleveland-bound out of Shelby and the 7:25 p. m. Columbus-bound, also out of Shelby. They operate between Cleveland and Columbus.

The B. and O. railroad announced it will discontinue six Ohio trains tomorrow, including No. 61 from Cincinnati to Washington, Ind.; 62 from Washington, Ind., to Cincinnati; 235 from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati; 236 from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh; 350 from Cincinnati to Toledo and 351 from Toledo to Cincinnati.

The railroad said most of the trains to be discontinued are local trains or branch lines.

The order will continue until Dec. 25 unless some definite change occurs in the coal picture, the commission stated.

Workers Drop Tools To Join In Gold Rush

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (UP) — Merchants closed their shops and workers threw down their tools today to join the headlong rush for gold in a new strike just nine miles from the arctic circle.

Every plane capable of getting into the air was crowded with veteran prospectors, construction workers, trappers, storekeepers and college students racing to stake claims at the site, located on a sandbar in the storied Yukon River 160 miles north of here.

The territory's fastest-growing community was the Tent city beside the river which sprang up after a fisherman discovered nuggets the size of peas clinging to the webs of his fishtrap, a wheel contraption operated by the waters's flow.

Airline terminals were full of men trying to charter planes to the impromptu town, appropriately nicknamed as Fishwheel, Alaska.

Although the men were excited to fever pitch by the old-age cry of "gold," no bloodshed was reported in the race for the diggings.

"Ramblin' Sam" Gamblin, a veteran of the Sushana strike of 1913, said the filing of claims was being carried out peacefully.

Bus Strike Hits Canton

40,000 Walk Or 'Thumb'

CANTON — (AP) — Canton's 40,000 daily bus riders could walk, hop a taxi, thumb a ride, or just stay home today. The 116 bus drivers and 32 mechanics were on their second strike in two years.

The last time the AFL Canton bus drivers union struck the Canton city lines, in 1947, the walkout continued for 46 days and went right through the Christmas shopping period.

This one started yesterday, tying up Canton's sole means of mass transportation. Federal conciliators were trying to get both sides into another conference.

The strikers are asking a 20-cent-an-hour boost over the present rate of $1.32 for drivers and $1.52 for mechanics.

Their demands were branded "absurd" by R. E. James, operations manager for National City Lines, incorporated of Chicago, parent company of the Canton utility. James estimated the proposed increase would cost the firm $150,000 yearly. The union denied this.

Canton city lines offered to retain the present wage scales. It previously proposed a five-cent hourly wage slash.

The firm was struck after James turned down a union plan to have a three-man arbitration board settle the dispute.

Wife Appears At Bride's Fete

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A wedding reception at the home of Donald K. Klitzke's bride was going fine until Mrs. Suzzane Brickham, 28, walked in.

Klitzke took one look at her and departed.

Police caught him yesterday on a charge of bigamy filed by Mrs. Brickham. She said that Klitzke, under the name of Donald Brickham, married her 18 months ago.

It'll Be Ready Next Month

Route 13 At Airport Nearing Completion

State Route 13 around Municipal airport will be ready for regular travel about the end of November, City Engineer W. C. Statler said today.

The Mansfield Asphalt Paving company will be through with its part of the job by the end of this week or the first of next week, the contractor said today.

Then the road contractor, A. J. Baltes, Norwalk, will move in to put the finishing touches on the three-and-one-half-mile section around the eastern side of Municipal airport.

The contract price of the new stretch of road is $487,009, according to the state highway department. With the prices paid for right-of-way and other contingencies the highway will run well over the half-million dollar mark.

The southern end of the new highway begins just north of the Mansfield reformatory and ends one-half mile north of the Amoy-Pavonia road.

It will be a two-lane highway, or 22 feet across, all the way. The base will be of macadam with a two and one-half-inch layer of asphalt paving on top.

Bus Rammed; 1 Dies, 30 Hurt

PAOLI, Pa., — (UP) — A truck carrying 15 tons of steel was struck by a Greyhound bus today, killing an 18-year-old sailor and injuring 30 passengers, three of them critically. Stephen H. Chapley jr., Uniontown, Pa., R. D. 3, died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

Fourteen persons were admitted to Bryn Mawr, Pa., hospital, and 11 injured were admitted to the Chester county hospital, West Chester, Pa. Five other persons were treated for injuries at the accident scene.

Hush-Hush Bill Passed

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Amid hush-hush secrecy, Congress has approved a $30,000,000 start on a program to test fantastic weapons for future warfare.

The funds as well as a separate compromise measure authorizing them were pushed through both the Senate and House last week with almost no discussion or debate.

They await expected presidential approval and would start a program of building wind tunnels to test:

1. Models for guided missiles which experts hope to be able to send from this to other continents, possibly armed with atomic warheads.

2. Aircraft able to carry atomic bombs while traveling at and above the speed of sound and capable of defense against similar enemy aircraft.

These details are available from earlier congressional attempts to push through the so-called "wind-tunnell" bill, authorizing funds to build new laboratories for testing death-dealing weapons of the future.

These attempts bogged down, but both the authorization and actual funds sped through the final days of the session.

RANGOON, Burma — (AP) — Chinese nationalist engineers are reported feverishly repairing the Burma road, wartime India-to-China supply route.

British To Pay For Medicine

Attlee Bares New Austerity

LONDON — (INS) — Prime Minister Clement Attlee proposed a broad program of new "austerities" for an already pinched Britain today—including a government charge for aid under the vast socialized medicine service.

Attlee outlined to a tense nation a scheme of government cutbacks ranging from a slashing in defense expenditures to a hike in the price of dried and frozen eggs, and removal of price controls on fish.

The Prime Minister informed the House of Commons that the economies he proposed should produce a "disinflationary" saving of some $700 million a year.

With regard to what was considered a major modification in the government's highly controversial national health service, Attlee said that henceforth the government will charge a maximum of one shilling (14 cents) for each prescription. He said this will save the nation $2 million annually.

Until now, prescriptions have been filled free of charge as part of the health service plan.

Attlee said that the government plans to reduce defense expenditures by $84 millions a year.

Half-Way Mark Topped

Chest Fund Up To $74,193

The Community Chest fund went over the half-way mark today as Chest officials reported a total of $74,193 collected or pledged.

Workers still have four days to reach their goal of $141,663 before the drive officially closes Thursday.

There will be a meeting of all division chairmen at campaign headquarters at 4:30 p. m. tomorrow to go over what has been accomplished so far and to make plans for obtaining the remainder of the money. Officials hope to hurry up reports so the campaign can close on time.

Of the total reported today, the Feathers, headed by Orlo Smith, has turned in $40,131, or 59 per cent of their quota, and the Stars, headed by Robert Salsbury, $34,062, or 46 per cent of their quota.

Blue stars were placed before the names of two more teams in the public employes division who exceeded their quotas today.

They are Team No. 8, of Carpenter school, captained by Dean Rex, which raised $56 on a quota of $45, and Team 14, of West Fifth street school, headed by W. W. Blauser, which turned in $57 on a quota of $55.

The professional division, headed by Charles Robinson, has the highest percentage of its quota of any division with $4,366 raised on a quota of $6,925 or 66 per cent of the quota.

11-State Hunt On For Woman

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The words "foul play feared" in a police teletype message today spurred an 11-state search for a 40-year-old woman believed abducted from her home clad in pajamas.

The missing woman, Mrs. Dorothy Forstein, disappeared last Tuesday. Her husband — city magistrate Jules Forstein — sought police help on Thursday.

One of the first persons questioned was the attractive blonde woman's nine-year-old daughter, Marcy.

The little girl told police she had seen a man carry her mother from the Forstein home. At first police doubted the child's story. Then they took her to a psychiatrist who reported Marcy "apparently is telling the truth." It was then that detective inspector George F. Richardson asked police in 11 states to join the search for Mrs. Forstein.

U. S. to Back Baruch Plan To the Hilt

BY MERRIMAN SMITH

NEW YORK —(UP)— President Truman today called on the Russians to be "men of good will" and agree to an effective plan to outlaw atomic warfare.

Speaking to representatives of all the United Nations, Mr. Truman said this country will continue to back to the hilt the so-called Baruch plan for international control of atomic energy "unless and until a better and more effective plan is put forward." So far, he said, it is the only workable plan advanced.

But along with his emphatic support of the plan, Mr. Truman held out a friendly hand to Russia, although he did not mention that country by name. He said he is convinced there are no international problems which cannot be solved amicably through patience, reasonableness and hard work.

"No single nation can always have its own way," Mr. Truman said, in solving this or other difficult problems because the "solution to human problems is to be found in negotiation and mutual adjustment."

The substance of the Baruch plan, which Mr. Truman reaffirmed, has been approved by the United Nations General Assembly whose members were gathered here on the east side of midtown Manhattan for the formal cornerstone laying ceremonies for the UN's new 39-story skyscraper world headquarters. It was the fourth anniversary of the birth of the world organization.

Brig. Gen. Carolos P. Romulo of the Philippines, president of the 4th session of the UN general assembly, praised the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt as one of the founding fathers of the UN, naming him as "the greatest American of our time.". He said the UN was founded on Mr. Roosevelt's concept of the four freedoms.

"We shall have failed on our supreme duty to mankind if we do not make the permanent home of the United Nations the house of peace," Romulos said. ". . . we must remain at peace with one another—or die."

In his 2,500 word address, Mr. Truman put much emphasis on the problem of atomic energy control and this nation's re-affirmation of the Baruch paln. He did not refer to his announcement of a recent atomic explosion in Russia, but obviously was mindful that the problem has attained new urgency.

He said the Barch plan, which provides for international inspection of atomic energy plants, is "a good plan." Russia has blocked adoption of the plan in the UN security council. Russia wants a public count of A-bombs first. It was agreed to inspection, but has never said whether it would permit such inspection by persons other than Russians."

He said world peace must be based on respect for human rights, promotion of economic development and a system for control of war weapons.

UN members have learned through "bitter experience," Mr. Truman said, that "disregard for human rights is the beginning of tyranny and, too often the beginning of war."

He also commended the UN for undertaking economic aid to under-developed areas of the world. He promised American support for these efforts in line with his "point for" program.

Bidault To Try Again

PARIS — (AP) — Georges Bidault, leader of the Popular Republicans (MRP), sought today to lead France out of a 19-day-old political crisis. His chances for success in forming a cabinet were dimmed considerably by mounting sentiment for a new national election.

The veteran negotiator and former foreign minister was the third man to try to form a government since disputes over wage and price policies toppled Premier Henri Queuille's cabinet.

Jules Moch, a socialist, and Rene Mayer, a radical socialist, have tried and failed to rebuild the three-party coalition which has ruled France under various premiers since early in 1947. That coalition of Socialists, Radical Socialists (moderates) and Popular Republicans has steered France between communism on the left and De Gaullism on the right.

President Vincent Auriol designated Bidault as premier last night.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Police here yesterday reported a widespread wave of pre-Halloween vandalism on the city's north and west sides. Most of it consisted of breaking windows and strewing garbage.

5,000 On Guard For President

Vast Crowd Sits In 42nd Street

NEW YORK — (UP) — Some 5,000 police guarded President Truman's route to the United Nations headquarters cornerstone laying ceremony today.

Every precaution was taken by police, the U. S. Secret Service and UN guards to control any communist demonstration against the President which might grow out of the recent conviction and sentencing of 11 members of the communist American politburo for criminal conspiracy.

The communists claim about 30,000 members in the metropolitan area.

The president addressed an unprecedented open air meeting of the UN general assembly, with the delegates from the 59 member nations seated on slatted chairs in the middle of 42nd street, where the world's most famous show street runs into Manhattan's east river.

Arrangements were made to seat 10,000 delegates, members of their families and invited guests. In addition many thousands more jammed the adjacent streets.

The president arrived from Washington by train and traveled in a motor cavalcade the 16 blocks from Pennsylvania station to 1st ave. and 42nd street, where the half-finished 39-story UN structure towers above the river.

At the extreme end of the street, a massive blue backdrop bearing the UN coat-of-arms in white was erected on steel scaffolding. Along the sidewalks, blue pendants hung from standards, also bearing the white coat-of-arms.

Before the huge backdrop was the speaker's dais, flanked by the massed colors of the 59 united nations.

On the high dais sat Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, president of the 4th session of the General Assembly. On his right was Secretary-General Trygve Lie, once Norway's foreign minister. On his left was Andrew W. Cordier, an American, who is Lie's executive assistant.

Immediately below them were places for Mr. Truman, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York City, Ambassador Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate to the UN and chairman of its headquarters advisory committee, and John D. Rockefeller, jr., who donated the $8,500,000 seven-block river-front site for the UN headquarters.

Gardens, Flowers To Be Nipped Tonight

Heavy Freeze To Follow Warm Week End

Frost and below-freezing temperatures are on the weather menu for tonight with the weatherman predicting that Mansfielders will see some real fall weather in the next few days.

The "Indian Summer" weather that has prevailed for the past three weeks gave residents their third pleasant Sunday in a row yesterday. Many took to the highways to view the brilliant landscapes or hunt nuts.

About 4:30 p. m. yesterday, Mansfielders were treated to an unusual show from migrating wild geese which formed some pretty formations in the southwest sky. Many who saw the geese weave their various "V" formations were in their gardens, still picking produce or late fall flowers which still bloom profusely. Two recent light frosts seem not to have harmed the blooms.

According to the weatherman a dry coldness will swoop down over the state tonight, accompanied by a heavy frost which may have damaging effects to vegetation. The peak of the frost will be reached by daybreak tomorrow, weathermen said.

Today's noon temperature was 46 degrees and the weatherman says 55 is the highest he can promise for today. He warned Ohioans to dig out the extra blankets for a low of about 30 degrees tonight.

Mansfield's 37 degrees at 7 a. m. today was the lowest recorded in the state. Toledo was next low with 38 degrees.

Noro Morales Is Character In Town of Characters, New York

NEW YORK—In a city of characters Noro Morales is one of the biggest.

He is a short dark man of 37 who weighs between 265 and 320 pounds—depending on his mood—can identify more than 45 perfumes by their odor, and wears a ring with 21 diamonds on the little finger of his right hand.

His weight, his collection of perfumes and his diamond rings reflect Noro's rising statute as "The Rajah of the Rumba."

He shares this honor with another dance band leader, Xavier Cugat, and the difference between them is the difference between Benny Goodman and Guy Lombardo. His fans say Cugat may play a sweeter rumba, but Noro—"he puts in more tom tom."

"I like music with the bongo in eet," is the way Morales likes to put it.

The reason I sought out Noro, however, wasn't his music. I wanted to explore a report he was the author of the current Broadway catch phrase—"Wha Hoppen?"

I found "the Rajah" holding court as usual in Hanson's drugstore at Seventh avenue and 51st street. This is a favorite hangout of theatrical and musical personalities until they become famous, put on dark glasses, go to El Morocco — and dare photographers to try and find them.

It was hard to hold Morales' ear long, because he has a heart as wide as his waist. People kept dropping by for coffee and a free sandwich, leaving Noro — as usual — with a fistful of checks to pay. This is a gesture he loves.

"When I was a boy in Puerto Rico I earn my first seex pesos playing piano at government ceremony," he recalled.

"Afterward I go to balcony and throw all seex pesos to the poor people below. Thees make me a front-page sensation — for two eeditions, anyway.

"Eef I do something like that today, they would put me in Bellevue hospital."

But today Morales has a gross annual income in six figures — not pesos. Like this — 100,000 dollars.

Now about this phrase on everybody's lips — how did "Wha Hoppen" come to happen?

"I use thees phrase ever since I learn Engleesh — in 1935," said Noro. "But I really didn't catch on until about four years ago. I play engagement and when it ees finish no monee come. So I say, "Wha Hoppen?' And everydody theenk it ees funny."

★

Later Morales wrote a song called "Wha Hoppen, Baby?" I asked him about a report that the phrase had been credited to another rumba band leader, Pupi Campo. Noro, who doesn't like to run down another musicain, hesitated.

"Well," he said, "all I know about that as I say 'Wha Hoppen' eeven before Pupi come to this country."

Noro's big passions off the dance floor are baseball — he used to play first base — and perfume. He wears perfume, as do many Latin American men, and is proud of it.

"Everybody keed me about eet," he laughed. "But I rather-er smell nice than stinks."

He does smell nice, too —somewhere in that mystic area between Chanel no. 5 and Christmas Night.

People don't ask Noro what his weight is down to. They ask what it's up to. Right now he's a skinny 265.

"I'm on a diet," he joked. "A diet of gefullte fish and blitzes."

Writer Quotes Pungent Passages From Theater Book of the Year

With the permission of Publisher A. A. Knopf here are a few tastings of the gala stuff in George Jean Nathan's latest edition of his annual best seller, "The Theatre Book of the Year."

Even at the tender age of six I was such an objectionably precocious heel that, when my father took me to the Barnum and Bailey circus, I outraged his patience and geniality by my open suspicion that not only wasn't it Julius Caesar himself, as advertised, who was driving one of the chariots in the big Kiralfy spectacle but that the Queen of Sheba looked to me very much like our last year's cook.

Cedric Hardwicke's opinion of Hollywood: "It gives you everything—blue skies, soft climate, loads of money, a life of ease and luxury, world-wide celebrity, beautiful women—and it takes from you but one thing in return: your talent."

Why is it that even the member of a theatre audience who thinks some such pun as referring to the Tennessee city noted for its imbecile censorship as non compos Memphis is amusing feels it nevertheless incumbent upon him to shudder and dismiss it as beneath contempt?

The vanity of the average actor is so great that he has come to regard a critic's description of his performance as "adequate" as condescending and even a bit insulting, when "adequate," were he to look up its meaning in the dictionary, means "equal to the requirement or occasion" and "fully sufficient."

I bemuse myself by looking at the inevitable girl in the ballets who indulges herself in nonsensically eccentric behavior and works her features into clownish grins in the hope that the audience will detect in her potential talents as a rare comedienne.

When I get tired of looking at her, which is pretty quickly, I while away the time speculating why the vocalist lovers always end their sentimental duets by filling their lungs to the bursting point and to outyelling each other that the song's effect is less one of mutually expressed tender passion than of a pair of jealous professionals determined to minimize each other's vocal gifts.

The man who goes to a musical show primarily for the sake of its book is like the one who takes out a pretty girl for the sake of listening to her talk.

How much money it costs our larger cities to establish and operate their park zoos, I do not know; but whatever the amount, it seems to me to be an awful waste of money. The theory that the zoos are immensely edifying and instructive, particularly to the young, is so much gobbledegook.

Just how an education in natural history is to be gained by watching a monkey disport himself in a manner which if practiced by the onlooker would land him in jail for six months or by listening to a sea lion roaring like Jan Kiepura, I hope to have someone explain to me.

1,000 Open Teaching Mission

Churches Urged To Find Non-Members

"The Christian Teaching Mission is a way of locating the lost in Mansfield and of organizing ourselves to go out, hand in hand, in a great united adventure, to find them for Christ," Dr. Ralph Holdeman, guest dision, told the nearly 1,000 Mansfielders who attended a union service of preparation last night.

The service was held at the First Presbyterian church as a "kick-off" meeting for the Mansfield Christian Teaching Mission which begins Thursday and continues through the following Thursday.

Dr. Holdeman, of Dayton, chose as his topic, "How Much Do Protestants Care?"

He told his audience the Protestant church is ill prepared for taking care of the 20 per cent of the population which moves from one place to another each year.

He called the 43 out of every 100 persons who have no church affiliation the "lost sheep of Christ" and said they must be treated as persons who had temporarily lost their way, not as wicked sinners.

'SPIRITUAL D. P.'S'

Dr. Holdeman said, "These people are spiritual D. P.'s — America's displaced persons." He added the government's program of decentralization will increase the number of these D. P.'s, as people move from their home cities to other areas.

He emphasized that the Protestant church must not only find these "lost sheep" but must hold on to them after they are found.

"If we don't improve our churches we will lose these people again after they are found. If they are lost it is our fault," he added.

Dr. Holdeman said Mansfield church members must give nonchurch members an opportunity to observe them as Christians and to learn about God and Christ.

"We must be on fire to win all these lost sheep," he concluded.

Music for the service was furnished by a union choir of 113 voices, made up of choir members from the 19 churches participating in the teaching mission.

Rev. V. C. Stamets, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church, gave the call to worship, invocation and collect.

The responsive reading was given by Rev. Ben F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church, and the scripture lesson by Rev. W. J. Shawk, of the Main Street Evangelical United Brethren church.

Rev. J. C. Melchert, of St. John's church, gave the prayer, and Rev. E. W. Welch, of the East Mansfield United Presbyterian, gave the benediction.

Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner, pastor of the First Methodist church, was chairman of the preparation service committee.

Union Men Aid Project

Donate $850 To New Friendly House

Eleven Saturdays of extra work by Mansfield bricklayers and masons who are members of Local No. 31, AFL, have aided the new Friendly House building project on North Mulberry street in the amount of $850.

When workers decided last winter to help get the building under roof before cold weather set in by giving their "days off", there was no thought in the minds of Russell and Mary Gimbel, F-H directors, of the extent to which their help would go.

Not only did the bricklayers and masons work on Saturdays, but the money they would have been paid for the extra work has been turned over to furnish the "meeting room" of the new settlement house.

So far 35 small chairs and a piano have been placed in this room, one of the most cheerful, in the north west corner of the building. A bulletin board, table and three extra chairs and a blackboard have been ordered. In this room will be held meetings of the board of directors and all other committee and staff meetings of the Friendly House organization.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The brother of Richard A. Caravona, 40-year-old shop foreman, shot him to death because he was afraid he would poison him, patrolman Paul Krup reported today.

William Francis Caravona, 31, admitted in a signed statement he shot his older brother, said Krup, in an argument at Richard's home last night.

Krup said the younger Caravona, unemployed, insisted that the dead man had tried twice to poison him—once with a doped cigarette and again with "poisoned wine." Krup asserted Richard had continually denied these accusations.

SURPRISE ENDING—

Dr. Ralph Holdeman, guest director of the National Christian Teaching Mission here, proved himself the type of speaker who can ably tell a story with a surprise ending. Speaking at a union preparation service last night, Dr. Holdeman left his audience surprised at one of the true stories he used to illustrate his sermon. He told how a small boy attended a certain Protestant Sunday school for three years, then dropped out because he felt no one cared whether he came or not. The boy got into trouble and was sent to an Indiana reform school. After reform school, he again went to Sunday school at another Protestant church, but again stopped going when he decided no one missed him when he wasn't there. "A few years later that boy was shot as public enemy No. 1," Dr. Holdeman said. "His name was John Dillinger."

Duck Hunters Warned To Stay Away From Clear Fork Lake

Duck hunters were warned today it might be an expensive duck if they shoot it at the city's Clear Fork reservoir.

In spite of the fact that the Clear Fork reservoir area is clearly posted, and a city ordinance makes possible a heavy penalty for treaspassers, duck hunters are swarming over the reservoir land, Lester Cullen, caretaker and special deputy, said today.

Cullen said he hasn't arrested any hunters yet, but he has warned a number that it is unlawful to hunt at the reservoir this year.

The reason no one has been arrested is because the special deputy hasn't caught any hunters with a duck in his possession.

Cullen said if he catches anyone on the reservoir site after he has warned them to stay off they will be arrested.

City council Aug. 3 passed an ordinance making it illegal to trespass on the Clear Fork reservoir area in 1949.

Construction is still under way at the Clear Fork lake and hunting or trespassing on the grounds could be dangerous.

Future plans call for a recreational area at Clear Fork reservoir, but not until proper controls are set up and the plan approved by the state health department.

The ordinance approved by city council prohibiting trespassing and hunting on Clear Fork reservoir in 1949 states: The penalty shall be a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment of not more than six months.

Laughs It Off

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Gabe Paul assistant to the Cincinnati Reds president has laughed off a dispatch in the Boston Traveler that manager Joe McCarthy of the Boston Red Sox was reportedly dickering for the purchase of the Cincinnati club

Luke Sewell Chosen Manager of Redlegs

CINCINNATI —(AP)—Luke Sewell, who led the St Louis Browns out of baseball's wilderness, today had shouldered the task of trying to do the same thing for the Cincinnati Reds

Sewell, a veteran major league catcher, yesterday was named manager of the Reds for 1950 and 1951, succeeding Bucky Walters, who was relieved of his duties in the last week of the 1949 season Sewell was a coach under Walters during the past season

Sewell directed the Browns to their one and only American pennant in 1944

And in taking over the job of hoisting Cincinnati out of the lower reaches of the national league, Sewell did it with the positive word from Powel Crosley jr , chairman of the board and principal owner that it must be done by developing young players and not through wholesale purchases of established stars

"The club must stand on its own feet," said Crosley as the announcement of Sewell s appointment was made 'I don't care how much an individual has I am frank to say I can't subsidize the club to the extent of a million dollars a year.

"If another club has a million dollars to spend for ball players it has a definite advantage Our money must be spent in a smarter way "

Referring back to Cincinnati's last national league pennant winners in 1939 and 1940 Crosley said, 'we built a pennant winner and a world series winner and spent money within our means "

"There comes a time when you have to rebuild a club with young ball players," the Reds owner said "Some go along with castoffs and sometimes win a pennant We decided some time ago to get young ball players We have a young pitching staff We're hoping for the best "

HAPPY AND EXCITED

Sewell, who will take over a club that has finished seventh in the national league for the last two seasons said he was 'too happy and too excited" to give thought to any changes in the Reds setup

"The club is on the upgrade ' he said The pitching staff is not too bad Neither is the infield We could use a bit more power in the outfield Right now I have no changes in mind "

Sewell was brought out of retirement last year to become a coach under Walters

He managed the Browns from June 5, 1941 until Aug. 31, 1946 and had the club in the first division three times. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama and now lives in Akron, O. His wife, the former Edna Ridge, is a native of Akron.

The Reds haven't been in the national league's first division since 1944 After winning pennants in 1939 and 1940 they were third in 1941 fourth in 1942 second in 1943 and third in 1944 under Bill McKechnie Since then they never have been above the fifth spot

Buckeye High School Race Is Wide Open'

By International News Severice

What, up until Friday appeared to be a one-team race for Ohio's mythical schoolboy football championship is a wide open affair today with the outcome not likely to be determined for another month

Right now Canton McKinley appears to hold top billing, but pressing the Bulldogs hard are Mansfield, upset victor over Massillon Friday, and Massillon s Tigers themselves

The myth of invincibility surrounding Chuck Mather's Massillon footballers was shattered into a million pieces by Mansfield's 16 12 victory, but the Tigers are very much in the running for their second state crown

McKinley, winner of six straight to date, must defeat Alliance, powerful Lakewood, Columbus East and Massillon in its final game of the season to clinch this year's title

Once beaten Mansfield meets Kent Roosevelt rugged Toledo Waite and rebounding Springfield in its three remaining games—all the while praying for a Canton upset

Massillon tangles with Warren, Toledo Waite and Youngstown South prior to its Canton McKinley date

Other teams still rating statewide acclaim are Lakewood, Springfield Marion, Hamilton, Findlay Fremont Ross Middletown Circleville, Zanesville and Upper Arlington

Fremont Ross and Canton McKinley made the biggest noise in the past week end s struggles The Fremonters demolished Tiffin Columbian 78-0 while McKinley crushed Steubenville, 61 6

OTHER UPSETS

Biggest upsets outside the Mansfield Massillon affair were Findlay s 39 20 loss to Marion Harding and Springfield 14 6 victory over Hamilton Both Findlay and Hamilton previously were undefeated

CHAPEL HILL, N C — (AP — Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina declined to comment last night on reports that his tar heels were beaten by Louisiana State on a muddy football field when it had not rained in Baton Rouge in two days

However, sports editor Billy Carmichael, III of the daily Tar Heel, UNC student newspaper said the condition of the field was such that the visitors were forced to use mud cleats during the game which they lost to LSU last night, 13 7

Carmichael said the turf in Tiger stadium was watered down Friday evening after the Tar Heels ran through a practice on it At that time it was in a dry, fast condition

He said the field was wet down again yesterday morning and a third time yesterday afternoon with a fire hose turned on it for three hours LSU officials, according to Carmichael freely admitted the fact, but declared that it was a mistake They explained he said that the second and third waterings were done by workers who did not realize the field had already been wet down

LSU head coach Gaynell Tinsley had remarked during the past week that his Tigers "won two games on a soggy field The mud doesn t seem to hurt us "

"But maybe ' Tinsley added, "it will slow down (Charlie) Justice's sweeping runs and he passes to Art Weiner Let it rain "

Newspapers in Baton Rouge commented yesterday on the watering of the field according to Carmichael He said the morning Advocate ran a story which said spectators at the game ' were bewildered with the glistening and slick appearance of the sodden turf since it hasn t rained in Baton Rouge for the past two days "

Massillon Wins Ohio Football Loop Title

Pigskin Coaches Mourn

BY OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — (UP) — It was Monday mourning today following upset Saturday and suicide Sunday.

Chief condolences were in order for Bernie Bierman, coach of Minnesota's tarnished Gophers. But the man whose "number one team of the nation" fell before twice-beaten Michigan had plenty of company as he went shopping for arsenic and razor blades.

Three other frustrated football totors took their first lumps of the season in Saturday's debacle. Beaten for the first time were Bear Bryant's Kentucky club; Carl Snavely's North Carolina Tarheels; and Mike Milligan's Pitt Panthers.

Snavely, as a novelty, was considering an eight-story jump into a junior sized cotton bowl. Bryant had enough of that, no matter how you spell it, seeing that his wildcats were tamed by SMU in the Cotton bowl.

Also considering novel methods of self-destruction were the panting pigskin directors at Texas, Northwestern, Oklahoma A. & M., Boston college, Clemson and Georgia. They watched in helpless despair as their favorites went down to defeat.

Bierman's personal villain was Charley Ortmann. With Minnesota favored by 11-½ points, Ortmann ran and passed Michigan to 14-7 triumph. He raced to 115 of Michigan's 126 yards on the ground, passed nine good ones in 17 trjes for 92 yards and scored one touchdown.

The ham or hero of SMU's win over Kentucky, depending on where your sympathies and finances laid, was Kyle Rote. Kentucky was favored by 6½ points but lost by a 20 to 7 count. A junior Jack the ripper, Rote slashed for 91 yards passing, as much as the whole Kentucky backfield, and scored two touchdowns and two extra points.

North Carolina was a seven point choice over LSU, but suffered its first regular season defeat since 1947 by a 13 to 7 score. Jim Roshto and Zollie Toth bagged it for the twice-beaten Bengals.

Beaten in 11 straight games, Indiana was a 10½ point underdog against Pitt. Somebody forgot to tell 'em. They won, 48 to 14. Bobby Robertson hopped up the Hoosiers with three touchdowns.

A lad named Froggie Williams calmly booted a 20-yard field goal with three seconds to go to give Rice, a six point underdog, a 17-15 win over Texas.

Twice - beaten Iowa was supposed to lose to Northwestern, conqueror of Michigan, by at least 7 points. So Iowa won, 28 to 21, when Fred Ruck flipped a 37 - yard touchdown pass to Jack Dittmer in the last quarter.

The Oklahoma Aggies were picked by 17 fat points over Kansas. They lost — and by 55 to 14. It was so bad that Carl Ellis, Kansas guard, picked up a fumble and ambled 81 yards to score.

Dick Haesler booted a 20-yard field goal with three minutes to play that gave Georgetown a 10-7 win over Boston college, which was supposed to win by 13 points.

South Carolina, a seven point underdog, came up with its first victory by flattening Clemson, 27 to 13, as Bo Hagan passed for one and ran for two touchdowns.

Georgia was a 14 point favorite over Miami. But Miami's nickname is the "Hurricanes." It was raining. Miami won, 13 to 9.

But you have to remember, for every mad coach there's a glad one. Like, for instance, J. O. Christian of Connecticut. The Wolves have been on his trail. His team beat Newport Naval training station, 125 to 0.

Maybe it ain't Christian — but it was a savage sort of pleasure!

Jack Elder To Speak At K. of C. Meeting

WILLARD—Jack Elder, former Notre Dame football and track star, will be the narrator for the film, "Spirit of Notre Dame," at the meeting of the Knights of Columbus here Monday night, Oct. 24.

The speaker will be Jack M. Malloy of Findlay, state secretary of the K. of C.

Postpone Game

The Akron Bulldogs - Toledo game scheduled for Ohio Football league play at Akron yesterday was postponed until Wednesday night.

Pro Rangers Lose Final League Tilt

The Massillon Progressive Chevrolets yesterday smashed the Mansfield pro football Rangers, 30 to 6, at Stadium field to win the first championship of the Ohio Football league.

Held to a one-touch down lead in the first half, the Massillons cut loose for four TD's in the final quarters to win their sixth straight game before a crowd of 3,100—the biggest of the season here. The Rangers ended their league season with four wins in six games to clinch a tie for second place.

Mansfield exhibited a more potent ground attack but hit bottom with a dull thud in the aerial department. The usually reliable Rangers' air arm connected only once in 13 tries and this poor effort probably cost them the game and a share in the league title.

Mansfield pushed Massillon all over the field in the first half, driving to the nine, 15 and six yard lines on separate occasions. Twice interceptions halted the marches and the third time the Rangers didn't have the steam to push it over on the ground. Had the Mansfield passing attack been clicking, the Rangers would have held a sizeable margin at the half. Payoff pitches were either too hard or dropped on each of the surges.

Al Brown, a Washington high all-Ohio in 1948, provided the only score of the first half when he took a Jack Herr punt on his own 32 and raced 68 yards for a tally. That was the only time the Chevies were in Mansfield territory in the first 30-minutes.

RANGERS DRIVE 91

After the score, the Rangers marched 91 yards to the Massillon six before turning over the pigskin. The Rangers had first and seven on the seven. Ralph Majors, the outstanding player on the field, made one yard over guard but Willis Walker lost three on a sweep. A Majors pass was too long and the Mansfield ace was stopped on the nine-yard line on fourth down.

In the final pair of quarters, the crippled Rangers crumpled before the unbeaten Massillons —a team which has never lost to an Ohio club. The Chevies are now in their third season.

Massillon clinched the result with a 105-yard march. Mike Norcia capped the drive by piling over from the five. Just three minutes later, Norcia, a 200-pound fullback, finished off a 47-yard march by going over from the 11 on a plunge.

In the fourth quarter, Mansfield marched 48 yards to the Massillon 39 before giving up the ball. On the first play, Bert Webb, another all-Ohio, tossed a long pass to End Tom Jasinski on the Mansfield 25 and the big fellow raced over. The play covered 61 yards.

Mansfield came right back and drove 74 yards for a score. It was the first time this year that the Chevies had yielded a score. Eldon Pritchard returned a kick-off 22 yards to the 48 and Majors raced 20 yards on a pitch out. However, Mansfield was penalized five yards for off sides. Majors then plowed for eight yards and Dave Worner made two.

An Elroy Jones pass was incomplete but Majors made a pretty run around end for 17 yards. Jones then swept end for 20 yards to the 19 and Majors hit off-tackle for the touchdown. Worner's kick was wide.

Two plays after the kick off, Wilbert Haas passed 41-yards to Al Thomas for the final score.

Majors was the real work horse of the game, carrying the ball 25 times for 133 yards, just 12 less than all the Massillon backs were able to gain.

Triple Gridiron Titans Defy Assault This Week

BY STAN OPOTOWSKY

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Notre Dame, Army, and Oklahoma towered over the football world today as triple titans defying assault.

There were other major football teams still unbeaten—Baylor, California and Cornell—but these did not carry the awesome aura of the Big Three which roll on each week to crushing victories while other pretenders to the throne tumble.

Gone from the list are Minnesota, 14-7 loser to twice-beaten Michigan Saturday; North Carolina, a 13-7 loser to Louisiana State; and Kentucky, a 20-7 loser to SMU. Meanwhile Army rolled over Columbia, 63-6, and Oklahoma battered Nebraska, 48-0. Notre Dame scrimmaged against its scrubs, probably the toughest game of the season for the Irish, in what is known to the trade as an "off day."

This week Army plays Virginia Military. See any upset possibilities there? Notre Dame plays Navy. See any there? Oklahoma plays Iowa State. Any takers on State?

No, it's another week of glory in lop-sided doses —and there seems to be little in sight that can hamper Army as long as Arnold Giliffa s throwing four touchdown passes, as he did against Columbia. And who can match Red Sitko and Larry Coutre? Or Darrell Royal of Oklahoma?

Baylor edged another inch toward the Southwest conference championship with a 21-0 win over Texas A and M and now plays Texas Christian Saturday. California beat Washington, 21-7, but next faces a severe test against once-upset UCLA. And Cornell sewed up Ivy league honors with a 14-12 licking of Princeton. Colgate comes next.

MAY BE MESS

Michigan plays Illinois, the only team still unbeaten within the big ten conference play, and a Wolverine win could throw the championship fight into havoc, with Minnesota and Ohio State again in Rose Bowl contention. Once-defeated Ohio State beat Wisconsin, 21-0, Saturday, faces Northwestern this Saturday and still has Michigan coming up Nov. 19.

Others:

Midwest — Minnesota plays Purdue, which lost to Illinois, 19-0. Indiana follows its 48-14 conquest of Pitt by meeting Wisconsin.

Pacific coast — Southern California, 40-13 victor over Oregon, plays Washington.

Southeast — Tulane, still the no. 1 power despite its loss to Notre Dame, beat Auburn, 14-6, and now plays Mississippi State. LSU plays Mississippi, 33-27 loser to TCU. Alabama meets Georgia and Auburn takes on Vandy, which lost to Arkansas, 7-6.

Southern conference — Duke and North Carolina are still the big guns but play southeast foes Duke, 55-7 conqueror of Virginia Tech, meets Georgia Tech, 43-14 Florida victor, and Carolina plays Tennessee, which downed Tennessee Tech, 36-6.

Midlands — Missouri, 32-0, Iowa State victor, plays Nebraska.

East — Penn, 28-7 winner over Navy, plays Pitt. Dartmouth plays Yale and Cornell meets Columbia.

Southwest — Texas, 17-15 loser to Rice, meets SMU, and Rice plays Texas Tech.

Charles Signs For Ring Tour

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Ezzard Charles, now busy with exhibitions, may defend his NBA heavyweight crown again this year.

Manager Jake Mintz disclosed last night that his fighter may meet Tony Bosnich of San Francisco in the Bay City next December. He would not say how definite the plans are.

Meantime, Mintz said Charles will fight 20 exhibitions in Latin America on a six - week tour starting late next February provided $100,000 is posted in a United States bank as a guarantee.

Rackley Sale Is Conditional

CINNCINATI —(AP)— Outfielder Marv Rackley's sale to the Cincinnati Reds for a reported $50,000 depends on the condition of his throwing arm, it was learned yesterday.

The Reds purchased the player from Brooklyn several days ago.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler disclosed in a bulletin that the sale was conditional.

Rackley was traded to Pittsburgh for First Baseman-Outfielder Johnny Hopp last midseason, but was returned when the Pirates claimed he had a sore arm.

Madison To Book Tough Schools

BY CHARLEY STINE

Madison high school has not dropped its plan for tough football schedules despite this year's rocky road. The Rams' 1950 card will be at least as tough as this year's if not more so. The card has not been completed as yet but school officials are after as rough opposition as they can get. Only team on this year's slate certain to be dropped is Canton South and it will be replaced by Dover.

Dover has been a member of the powerful Central Ohio league for many years and year in and year out is a top-notch Class A power. Scheduling of Dover by Madison is a part of the move to form a league which would include Orrville, Ashland, and Wooster.

The same situation exists in basketball. Madison has a few open dates left for this winter and Coach Blaine Dowler is searching for the best he can find. He says he wrote to Senior high officials for a game, but received no reply.

★

Speaking of basketball, there are only about three weeks remaining before schools which do not have football will take to the court . Down in the red-hot basketball territory of Perry county, they open cage play next week . . . Another bits of news scheduled to crop out soon is an announcement by County golf association president Ed Blonston of next year's plans . . . Blonston is considering inviting nearby courses to play in the tournaments and will have something definite on the program in a couple weeks . . Before baseball gets too far out of the picture, we would like to point out that while we are not an expert at picking pennant winners we are pretty good at picking out teams to finish last. Last April we selected the two Boston teams to win pennants but did come up with the Chicago Cubs and the Washington Senators as the correct cellar-dwellers Oh, yes, Indians fans, we had Cleveland—third.

Rap Cost Of Prison

BERLIN — (AP) — Ponderous allied machinery is moving to cut down the cost of keeping Rudolf Hess and six other high nazi war criminals in prison.

Only the seven nazis occupy Spandau prison which was built for 57 convicts. A prison staff of 452 is employed and bankrupt West Berlin pays 450,000 marks ($107,100) a year to foot the bill.

The United States Treasury pays a wage bill of $50,000 a year for American military personnel at the prison. Britain, France and Soviet Russia also pay large sums for the four-power guard..

"It's the craziest extravagance in Germany," an American official said Saturday.

A week ago Ernest Reuter, mayor of West Berlin, formally raised the question of easing the city's burden. He said the seven nazis could be kept in an ordinary jail for 8,000 marks ($1,904) a year.

The three western commandants took preliminary action by asking their officers at Spandau in the British sector to recommend economies. The officers suggested that only one cell block be maintained in operating condition instead of the entire prison.

Ruling Slaps UEW Leftists

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Leftist officers in Ohio's CIO United Electrical Workers have been barred by court order from taking money out of the $50,000 district treasury.

Judge Joseph A. Artl handed out the common pleas ruling yesterday after a group of recently elected right wing officers charged the group's left wing leaders aimed to "dissipate" the treasury balance.

Their petition claimed the defendants figured on using large sums from the treasury to help defend 11 top communist leaders convicted in New York last week.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM—In loving memory of Max Wilson, killed in action, 5 years ago today, October 24, 1944.
Gone is the face
We loved so dear,
Silent the voice
We loved to hear.
Too far away
For sight or speech.
But not too far
For love to reach
Sweet to remember
He who once was here.
And who, tho' absent
Is just as dear
Wife Donna and sons, Monte Max and Lon

Pupils Get Ready For Big Game

Half Day of Fun Scheduled

By ARTHUR LOMAX

John Simpson Junior High students will have a half holiday of fun, Oct. 26, preceding the Appleseed-Simpson football game at Arlin Field. There will be a pep assembly in which Rev. Matthew Madden will give a talk. The players will be introduced by Coach Robert Kennedy. Cheerleaders and the student body will give cheers and sing songs

The patrol boys under the direction of Wallace Firestone have a new system worked out for the safety patrol. If a boy fails to wear his belt and badge on so many points are deducted, and the boy must work extra duty to make up these points

Seventh and eighth grade boys glee club directed by Mrs. Virginia Allen have elected officers. Section 1 is headed by Willmer Fowler, president; Philip Tinkey, vice president; Michael Small, secretary; and Stephen Clark, librarian. Ronnie Bacquet is president of section 7; Bob Earnest, vice president; Gordon Helligoss, secretary; and Don Zeiback, librarian.

The eighth grade glee club is led by Philip Stirtzinger. Vice president is Brooks Lake; secretary, Walter Bodley; and Dale Brindley, librarian.

Student contributions to the Community Chest are climbing toward the 100 per cent mark. Faculty contributions are already 100 per cent.

Junior Red Cross membership drive has started according to Miss Catherine Darling, adviser.

Robert Glass, office assistant, announces birth of a daughter, Mary Ann. The faculty had a surprise shower at noon Monday honoring Mary Ann's arrival.

Mansfield teachers will attend the N. E. O. T. A convention in Cleveland Oct 28 so students will enjoy a long week-end vacation.

Tickets are being sold by Simpson supersalesmen to people wishing to go to the Simpson-Appleseed game Wednesday.

Prizes, totaling nine dollars will be given to the best salesman, and a half bushel of apples to the room selling the most tickets. The selling of tickets is under the direction of Wilbur Young, faculty athletic manager.

The Simpson band made another fine appearance at the double-header football game, in which Simpson beat Bellville by the score of 27 to 0 at Arlin Field, Oct. 19.

The library received a new World Book encyclopedia consisting of 18 volumes.

Mrs. W. B. Wert, Miss Inez Round and Miss Adalia Cline were substituting in the building during the past week.

WANT ECONOMY

MINNEAPOLIS — (UP) — Many Minnesotans feel it would be wise for the national government to cut spending, but there is strong opposition throughout the state to any reduction in funds for the armed forces or war veterans' benefits, according to a survey by the Minneapolis Tribune's Minnesota poll.

Raps Dulles' Bid For Italian Votes

Candidates for public office in the United States are usually granted a certain amount of leeway in the proposals they make to win support of voters' blocs. Even when they advocate policies which are dangerous, the average voter either charitably ignores them as being campaign stuff which will be forgotten as soon as the election is over or does not trouble to read the speeches at all.

But there are men in public life whose lives of solid accomplishment and the public esteem in which they are held are such that the proposals they make cannot be dismissed as campaign ballyhoo but instead have world wide significance.

Such a man is John Foster Dulles, candidate for re-election as United States Senator from New York. Thus his Columbus day speech in Buffalo to an Italian audience in which he unashamedly made a bid for Italian votes at the price of independence for the natives of the African colonies formerly held by Italy comes as a distinct shock.

At least seven Somaliland natives have been killed and 20 wounded by British troops during the past two weeks for protesting the proposed return of Italian political control over that unhappy colony.

Dulles' vast experience as a member of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations must surely cause him to know that additional bloodshed and turmoil will inevitably follow any steps to give Italy again any of the African colonies which she renounced totally and forever in the Treaty of Paris.

He must know that any steps by the U. S. or the U. N. or anyone else to re-establish colonialism, however disguised, will set off a chain reaction of revolt all over Africa and Asia.

He must know that it would play directly into the hands of Russia by giving the U. S. S. R. devastating propaganda material with which to prove to those who are the victims of colonialism that the democracies want freedom only for the peoples of Europe and America.

BID IS ALARMING

In the face of such incontrovertible facts, Dulles' bid for Italian votes is alarming. He alleged at Buffalo that Italy has a "right" to send emigrants to Africa and that the sending of them there is the only solution to Italy's economic plight, beset as she is by over-population, few natural resources and inability to import raw materials from Iron Curtain countries

Dulles has backtracked from the proposal he espoused as a member of the U. S. Delegation at the Paris U. N. General assembly in 1948 and at Lake Success in the Spring of 1949 and now favors renunciation of all political control over Eritrea and Libya.

But he continues to favor denial to the natives of Somaliland the future freedom which is proposed for the other two former Italian colonies. In fairness to him let it be pointed out that in doing this he is following the line of the U. S. delegation regarding Somaliland.

Dulles conveniently ignores the grim fact that Italy's economic plight is in part due to the fact that she fought on the side of Germany in the last war.

She has rightly been given enormous Marshall plan aid towards recovery, despite having been our enemy. Now Dulles advocates that she be given virtually a free hand to achieve further economic recovery at the expense of the freedom of the natives of Africa.

Strike Slows Metal Plants

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Slowdowns from the steel strike are becoming more prevalent in metalworking plants, but the industry still is in relatively high gear, the magazine Steel said today.

"Most fabricators are maintaining operations close to pre-strike levels, living off inventories," the magazine reported.

It said that only a few fabricating shops are strike-bound and only a small number of others have been forced to close or curtail for lack of steel.

"Certain manufacturers," the review continued, "have enough metal for another three or four weeks. Some of them are turning to substitutes, such as aluminum.

"This latter metal, however, may be in tight supply soon because of strikes at a number of Aluminum company of America plants."

Despite the minor strike effect so far, Steel said that in the main the fabricators' prospects are bleak.

It pointed out that steel stocks are shrinking alarmingly and general contraction is expected in the metal working industry by Nov. 1.

BULLFIGHTER ARRIVES—En route with five other Spanish bullfighters from Barcelona, Spain, to Lima, Peru, champion Luis Miguel Gonzales pauses at New York's La Guardia field to show his sword to Bonita Androlewicz, airline passenger service representative. Gonzales has killed 1,200 bulls since he entered ring at tender age of 10. (International).

AS MAINE GOES—?

AUGUSTA, Me. — (UP) — Ninety-eight Maine cities and towns now have non-political municipal managers—more than any other state in the nation. The trend toward city manager rule has been growing steadily for 31 years, and today nearly 50 per cent of Main's inhabitants live in communities so administered.

Vandals Break 12 Windows

Twelve broken windows at Johnny Appleseed Junior high today prompted a board of education official to ask police to patrol around the school building.

The 12 windows were broken with lumps of coal. Air rifle shot holes were found in a number of other windows.

Police were notified of the vandalism at 7:20 a. m. today by Glenn Robinson, business manager of the board of education.

Robinson asked the police to check around the building occasionally as windows are being broken often and it is getting to be an expensive item.

Miss Lamnek To Tell of Experiences

Because of the widespread interest aroused among Mansfielders concerning Elizabeth Lamnek, 28-year-old former Russian slave worker whose story appeared in yesterday's News-Journal, Immigration Consultant Anthony Knefely today announced she will speak before a group of persons Nov. 2, at an hour and place to be announced later.

Knefely said the meeting is being arranged so "she will tell her experiences once and no more."

She wants to forget the ordeals she underwent and does not want to relate repeatedly her experiences to anyone who asks her," he said.

Persons interested in attending the meeting should contact Knefely and make arrangements, he added.

Who Should Get Food—

Question Dumping of Surplus Abroad

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Should food surpluses be made available to American consumers or should they be sold abroad at cutrate prices?

This question is being raised already as the government embarks upon a broadening program of dumping abroad growing surpluses of some perishable foods — including apples, winter pears, dried eggs, and dried milk. There is a possibility that sizable quantities of pork and lard may be sold abroad at low prices if an expected price-depressing "surplus" develops.

Right now foreign buyers can get fresh apples and winter pears for about $1.25 a bushel cheaper than domestic buyers. There apparently are more of these fruits than Americans will buy at prices which the government says growers should receive.

To encourage foreign users to buy some of this extra supply, the government is offering an export subsidy. Under this program the exporter buys at the going market price in this country, sells the apples abroad at the cut-rate price and gets the difference from the government.

The purpose of the subsidy is to help get some of the price-depressing surplus out of the country so that prices will advance to desired grower levels.

The Truman administration can be expected to contend that in the cases of most perishable farm products surpluses should go to domestic consumers. This contention is the major feature, of course, of the so-called Brannan farm plan, which President Truman has endorsed enthusiastically but which congress has refused to accept.

Under this plan surpluses would be permitted to pull prices down, with the idea that consumers would buy much more than when prices are held up by a government price support program.

The farmer would get a payment from the government to make up the difference between his predetermined "fair" return and the actual market price.

The government has the authority to sell surpluses at cutrate prices abroad but not at home.

Foes of the Brannan plan contend it would be much more costly than the foreign-dumping method. They point out that under the foreign disposal method, the government makes a payment only on that part of a crop shipped abroad. Under the Brannan plan payment would have to be made on a whole crop.

Brannan advocates retort that the extra cost—if any—would be worthwhile because of the improved diet and health of the American people.

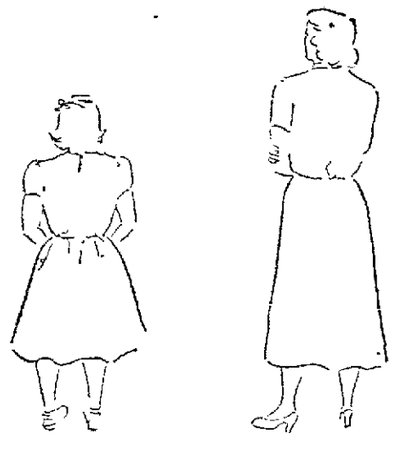
What's in a BRAND NAME?



As purchasing agents for Mansfield consumers, local merchants must decide what merchandise to buy for re-sale. The major considerations for the retailer are quality, price, selection, and availability of the merchandise. Much of the merchandise the retailer buys is nationally known. To this, he adds reliable regional and local merchandise.

Mansfield doesn't have any one store which sells all the nationally advertised goods. Neither is there a Mansfield store which offers only local or regional merchandise. Mansfield merchants try to keep their inventories well balanced. But all our stores together do combine to offer area consumers just about all of the nationally known merchandise as well as the majority of goods produced regionally.

You undoubtedly have your own preferences regarding brand names. Chances are you've continued to buy some brand names for many years. At any rate, you've kept looking until you found the brand you preferred. Mansfield merchants would have you compare brands. They'd rather you decided yourself which brand meets your price and quality standards.

Regardless of the brand name you finally decide to buy, Mansfield merchants want the suit or dress to fit, the washer to give good service, the shoes to be comfortable, the food to be nutritious and tasty. Mansfield merchants know that in the long run you'll buy more if they sell you merchandise that satisfies your own personal needs. You'll find that merchandise in a Mansfield store now.

With hunting season here, Don Smith is spending some of his spare time out in the woods hunting small game. Don is a modern hunter. He subscribes to various magazines about hunting and fishing, and he belongs to a local sportsman's association. Naturally, Don pays close attention to his gear. The gun, shells, and clothes that Don uses are bought with two satisfaction standards in mind: price and performance. Don thinks these standards pretty well apply to all other kinds of merchandise as well.

U. N. Is Now a 'Four-Year-Old'

THIS is the fourth birthday anniversary of the United Nations. Since those days, bright with hope, in San Francisco when the U. N. Charter was drafted the world has been shaken by continuous alarms. There has been some actual warfare. But the world organization has worked on. And it has accomplished more than we often realize.

It has localized or eliminated conflicts in the Middle East, Southeast Asia, India, and the Balkans. It has served at all times as an open forum for international discussion. And it is wholly possible that the letting-off of steam in the general assembly and the security council has prevented explosions of a nature more serious than harsh words.

To succeed ultimately as a place where international problems can be settled by means short of war, the U. N. must have the backing of a majority of the people on earth. That support needs to begin with you as an individual.

While conceding readily that the U. N. is far from perfect, you can believe—and preach!—that it is better than nothing. You can point to its accomplishment to date. And you can inspire others to take more interest in its proceedings.

Such a feeling, spreading gradually throughout the world, will give added strength and vitality to an organization which may well be the hope of future generations for a reasonable way of life in world affairs.

Colleges Face Financial Problems

DR. RAYMOND WALTERS, president of the University of Cincinnati, has reported the results of his annual analysis of the enrollments of colleges and universities throughout the nation. There is one particularly bright spot in the report.

This is the fact that although enrollments in most institutions are five to 10 per cent lower than last year there is an exception in teachers colleges as a group, which have little or no decrease. Although not so much has been heard recently about the teacher shortage there still is a great need for qualified educators. The continued high enrollment in teachers colleges indicates that this need will be met about as fast as the capacity of the colleges permits.

Possible trouble ahead for small private liberal arts colleges is seen by Dr. Walters. These receive a substantial part of their income from endowment investments, and that kind of income is not rising as operating costs of the schools go up. The general decline in enrollments is causing a corresponding drop in tuition income. Hence some of these smaller schools may soon find themselves in a financial squeeze.

Most institutions in ordinary circumstances, however, will find the small decline in registration more of a relief than a source of worry, since their campuses have been overcrowded for the last two or three years. Yet they also must give thought to financial problems for the future. The costs of schooling must be kept in line with the ability of students to pay, if the halls of learning are to be kept comfortably filled and giving their maximum service.

Another Year of Big Farm Crops

THE NATION is harvesting its second largest volume of crops in history, second only to the bountiful crops of last year. It can be remarked with considerable assurance that it may be some time before any such harvest is gathered again, not so much because of the uncertainties of the weather as because of the virtual certainty that government crop controls will hold down the planted and harvested acreage of many crops for at least a few years.

Under a system by which the chief result of an unusually big crop is heavy government expenditures to support the market, the financial logic in reducing future crops is plain to see. But human logic is missing.

No matter how high the piles of government-owned cotton and wheat and eggs, etc., may be made, they will never be high enough to hide the pinched and cold faces of those who have neither enough clothing nor enough food.

Ancient Swindles Still Thrive

WHY, OH WHY, will people persist in falling for the old swindle which involves handing over their life savings to complete strangers?

The strangers are always willing to share some wealthy find, or invest many times the money the victim has to contribute, but their money is seldom seen, and the victim's is never seen again.

Probably the swindle continues to work because the stranger's willingness to share his supposed fortune is no more ridiculous than the victim's willingness to turn over his saving to the stranger.

Now that Mansfield high school football players have beaten Massillon Tow about calling them into conference on some of the neglected city affairs?

There is some disappointment in learning that peace can cost more money than war.

The Nation Today

Back To Deficit Spending

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — The phrase "deficit spending" is getting well-known again.

Politicians and economists are arguing about it. You'll be hearing it for months, maybe for years.

The government has to pay its expenses out of the revenue it collects: Mostly taxes from individuals and corporations. When the government spends more than it collects, that's called deficit spending. That's what's happening now.

There was an unbroken stretch of 16 years — 1931 through 1946, the depression and wartime years—when the government did nothing but deficit spending.

Then for two years—1947 and 1948—revenue was higher than expenses and the government was on solid ground.

But in 1949—the 1949 fiscal year ending last June 30—the government went into the red again, with expenses exceeding revenue.

As for fiscal 1950— the year which began last July 1 and ends next June 30—congressional experts predict:

A deficit of perhaps $5,000,000,000, with expenses that may reach $45,000,000,000 and revenue of no more than $40,000,000,000.

To avoid the deficit, President Truman last January asked Congress to raise taxes. It didn't. Now he says he'll ask Congress next year to do it.

Truman critics say: If his administration would cut spending, there would be no deficit and no need for a tax increase.

Trumanites say: Help for Europe and re-armament, due to fear of war with Russia have made huge spending necessary.

But—when the government can't get enough money from revenue to meet its expenses it has to borrow. For example, by selling bonds.

The government not only has to pay back the borrowed money but interest on it, too. That adds to government expenses.

That borrowed money is called the public debt. It's running around $256,00,000,000 now.

* * *

How It All Happened

THIS WILL give a brief look at how deficit spending and the public debt got that way:

1930—. Expenses, $3,440,000,000; Revenue, $4,177,000,000.

1931—. Depression under way. People, losing jobs, had no income on which to pay taxes. Business profits were down. But government expenses climbed a bit. Score that year:

Expenses, $3,651,000,000; Revenue, $3,189,000,000.

1933—. President Roosevelt and the New Deal came in with the philosophy that the government had to spend, even though expenses far exceeded revenue, to get business going and give people jobs. Real deficit spending started.

By 1939 — just as we were coming out of the depression and just before preparations for World War II began—the public debt has risen to $40,000,000,000. The score that year: Expenses, $9,000,000,000; revenue, $5,000,000,000, deficit, $4,000,000,000.

Then came war preparations and the war, when the government had to spend astronomical sums, far exceeding its revenue. In 1945 the public debt had risen to $258,000,000,000. The score that year: Expenses, $98,000,000,000; Revenue, $44,000,000,000; Deficit, $54,000,000,000.

With the end of the war, government expenses dropped sharply but taxes, uncut, remained at the high wartime rate.

So by 1947, for the first time since 1930, government revenue exceeded expenses. Instead of a deficit, it wound up the year with a surplus of around $750,000,000 and was able to chop a little off the public debt.

In 1948 the government again had a surplus. The public debt had been reduced to $252,000,000,000. But it was in that year, over Mr. Truman's protest, that Congress cut taxes.

Aid for Europe and re-armament were getting under way on a big scale. And in 1949 the score was:

Expenses, $40,000,000,000; Revenue, $38,000,000,000. Once more the government was in deficit spending. Its deficit that year was almost $2,000,000,000.

For 1950, as noted, we face a deficit of maybe $5,000,000,000, while the public debt has climbed and now is around $256,000,000,000.

Washington Calling

Close, But Not Nervous

By MARQUIS CHILDS

OSLO, Norway — Here in the only Atlantic Pact nation that borders on the Soviet Union the people have good nerves. The news the Russians had set off aan atomic explosion produced not a ripple in the Norwegian calm.

It is not alone good nerves but also a realistic understanding of what the Atlantic Pact means for Norway. If Russia should start aggressive action against this northern bastion, the United States would be compelled to come to Norway's defense and another World war would be on.

The Norwegians know, too, that this would not be because Americans favor blue-eyed blondes nor, even for that matter, because of the formal commitments spelled out in the pact.

With Russia on the Atlantic ocean in possession of Norway's deep fiords, which could conceal all the Soviet's new-type submarines, the balance of power would be drastically altered.

* * *

Risk Was Realized.

IN SIGNING up with the Atlantic alliance, the Norwegians were taking a big risk and they knew it. There were dire forebodings of immediate reprisals by the great power that has openly hankered for Spitzbergen in the far north.

But Russia has made no overt moves since Norway and Denmark decided to enter the pact. Foreign Minister Halvard Lange put special emphasis on this in a talk with me in his bright, clean-looking office on the top floor of an Oslo office building. His windows look out onto the Oslo fjord where in 1940 the nazis steamed in to complete their capture of a defenseless and peace-loving nation.

That act of treacherous and brutal aggression shattered Norway's tradition of neutrality, which had been almost as rock-ribbed as that of neighboring Sweden. It explains why Norway, with the overwhelming approval of her people, could come into the pact while Sweden, escaping both world wars, stays out.

Because of the present world situation, Lange has become virtually a commuter between Oslo, New York and Washington. Soft-spoken, almost shy in manner, this scholar of the labor movement is approved even by the conservatives, who in the recent election campaign made no issue of foreign policy. During the war Lange spent six months in solitary confinement in a gestapo prison and two years in a German concentration camp.

The only outward consequence of the pact appears to have been the addition of one Russian division on the Russian-Finnish border.

In addition, Norway, after the pact, was added to the list of western European nations unceasingly vilified and attacked in the Soviet press and on the radio.

In calm Norway they find it hard to understand why we in the United States should get into an almost hysterical uproar over the threat of communism.

As one official put it with a good-natured smile, "It sometimes seems to us that you are shooting sparrows with cannon." The Norwegians are keeping their powder dry as they face the realities of a perilous world.

Moving Toward Two Important Events

By J. C. OESTREICHER

A NEW PERIOD of tension is in the making and the world is not expecting another "hundred days" but something possibly close to them—has begun in the unquiet arena of international affairs.

The suspense may be expected to reach its climax toward the end of the year and the beginning of the new.

On Christmas Eve, Pope Pius XII will usher in the Holy Year of 1950 by opening sealed doors in St. Peter's church and at that moment will set in motion Roman Catholic Christianity's greatest crusade against communism that may change the future of the world.

One day and one week later Yugoslavia will take her seat on the security council of the United Nations special assembly and perhaps the supreme political and moral contest between East and West will begin.

These two events—both of enormous importance—somehow are correlated although one is purely spiritual and the other material and political.

Outwardly there will be no political activities. But the church is firmly committed to an upcoming fight against communist inroads against human rights and church prerogatives.

The latest action taken by Czechoslovak bishops in condemning the communist government's new laws establishing state control over the church is emblematic of the strong line that is to be followed.

The more prosaic drama that will be enacted when Yugoslavia's shrewd foreign minister Edvard Kardelj takes his security council seat on Jan. 1, 1950, will be played out against the backdrop of the church crusade.

Kardelj is a communist and his Yugoslavian government is communist.

Both, however, have been placed in a position of conflict with the Soviet Union. And while this may be a personal feud between Marshal Tito and Marshal Stalin or perhaps a weird underground conspiracy whose ultimate objective is shielded from the untutored eye, the seating ceremony will bring the issue to the fore.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Brannan Plan Favored In NAM Analysis

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The last pressure group you would ever expect to support President Truman's Fair Deal is the National Association of Manufacturers. In fact, if the powerful NAM says anything good about the White House, it's news.

However believe it or not, but the NAM is now sending its members a confidential analysis of the most controversial feature of the Fair Deal—the Brannan farm plan—putting it in a favorable light.

Without hysteria, the NAM has prepared a detailed, factual analysis of the Brannan plan, which is neither for nor against. But the sum total of these facts is surprisingly pro-Brannan.

Though not yet off the press, preview copies have been sent to several NAM members along with a letter explaining: "Many even though they recognize the importance of the Brannan plan, nevertheless found it too abstruse for ready understanding. To hold remedy this the NAM research department has done a painstaking analysis of the plan's objectives, operations, etc."

Here then is what the NAM says about the Brannan plan:

"Qualified persons have pointed to several apparent advantages in using the Brannan plan to support farm income. They emphasize its directness and simplicity of method, fairness of the period 1939 to 1948 as a starting point for an income base or 'yardstick,' encouragement to continued high level production of nutritional foods, logical classification of storable and nonstorable farm products, 'orderly marketing' provisions, financial coverage of farm groups hitherto inadequately provided for in farm programs, and its importance to national security.

* * *

Brannan Weaknesses.

"ON THE other hand, several weaknesses in the plan are apparent. These shortcomings mainly concern the objective of trying to narrow the gap between farm and nonfarm income, the price distortions present in the period of years selected as the starting point for an income base or 'yardstick,' the unsoundness of attempting to project these distortions into the future, the discretionary power to alter prices dictated by the pricing formulas of the plan, the lack of built-in flexibility in the pricing formulas, and the practicability of again resorting to subsidies, production controls, marketing controls and other techniques of manipulation designed to implement the support of farm income . . ."

Then the NAM proceeds to answer some of these criticisms.

"From the standpoint of those who believe that agricultural prices must be maintained at near wartime levels in order to keep agriculture healthy," the NAM diagnosis continues, "the choice of the base period 1939 to 1948 is a logical one. Considered from this viewpoint, it must be pointed out that only with the price relationships existing in these years were farmers as a group in a position to lift their social and financial standards from the depths to which they fell following World War I.

"It was the level of income from 1939 to 1948 that enabled farmers to correct many of the maladjustments that were said to be depressing agriculture in the preceding twenty years. With this income, mortgage debt was reduced, housing and living conditions improved, more machinery and efficiency in farming operations were introduced, the number of tenant farmers were substantially reduced, schools, roads and other transportation facilities serving farmers were expanded and improved."

* * *

More Farmers Helped.

THE NAM report also points out that past price supports have chiefly aided a few basic and storable commodities. The Brannan plan, on the other hand, would help a much broader group of farmers.

It would support, the NAM continues, "income of the producers of most of the nonstorable commodities such as meat, dairy and poultry products and fruits and vegetables. Thus, this plan would extend financial assistance in times of stress to a large and important segment of the agricultural industry that has so far probably not been adequately provided for in the basic farm programs of the country.

"In this respect, the Brannan plan would probably be more closely integrated with the entire farm problem than has been the case with the farm programs in past years."

The NAM analysis also lauds the idea of continued high-level production "without resorting to production controls or a program of 'scarcity production.'" Hence, the "greatest number of farm products would be comparatively free of productions and marketing controls.

* * *

People Need Food.

"EVEN though the prices of some of the perishables might fall below their price support standard," observes the NAM, "there is some merit to the provision that allows high level production to continue in order that consumers may have a plentiful supply of such highly nutritional foods as dairy products, meat, fruits, eggs, etc. The advantage lies in a probable stimulation of needed improvements in the diets of consumers."

The NAM report also points out that "the Brannan plan would likely encourage and perhaps expand the operation of several farm enterprises important from the standpoint of national security . . . It should be noted that if national security is to be an important part in the farm program of this country, the Brannan plan would, if operated as designed, provide a more integrated program for directing the use of this country's soil and farm resources, than has any previous farm program even in times of war."

On the $64 question—cost of the Brannan plan—the NAM is cautious, but believes the cost "would approximate 3-½ to 4½ billion dollars exclusive of administrative costs.

"Although the Brannan plan so far does not contain a defined limit of cost within which it would operate," says the surprising NAM report, "congress could, through appropriations, exercise a continuing control over the expenditures made under this, or any other program for supporting farm prices and income."

Down Honey Creek Way

'Last Ditch,' They Call It

By LOIS ADAMS BYERS

THERE'S MORE to digging a ditch than there looks to be. We have just finished piping the spring water from house to barn. The shallow-well electric pump in the basement now connects with our barnyard. The oldest boy did the plumbing. A heavy iron kettle makes a convenient makeshift watering trough, and our cattle and pigs may drink to their hearts' content.

The job was started early in the summer. As the ground got harder, the four boys took turns—shorter and shorter turns—with pick and shovel. Once they struck rocks that had to be disinterred before they could go any farther.

After they had it two feet deep, an uncle said—"You'd better make it twice that, or it may freeze up tight! Why, I knew a man who had to dig up busted pipes after the first cold snap came."

They trailed the new pipe home from town with a red flag dangling from the rear end—the boys screwed the lengths together, having first painted the threaded ends with white lead. But in his haste to lower it into the trench, one boy dropped his end, and it snapped off neatly at the middle joint. When it was fixed they still lacked six feet of having enough. The hardware man sent for more pipe—meanwhile it rained.

The rain filled the lower end of the ditch with water. The pigs dived under the fence through the dug channel and after a few sniffs and snorts, shook themselves and were off to the cornfield. I watched one little pig run along the deep ditch, leap in panic against the perpendicular wall, turn a backwards flipflop, and land right side up, going the other way!

The boys brought the long garden hose and siphoned most of the water out, but then the sides caved in and they had to do it all over again.

People helped with advice. "Make a bigger hole where your hydrant drains itself and put in rocks so the pipe won't clog . . . don't you think you could go a little deeper in that low ground?" Meanwhile the electric pump worked fitfully—the spring sank lower and lower. What if it went dry?

All summer that unsightly ridge of raw earth lay across our lawn. The sight of it made young backs ache and young hands blister—almost.

Now it's actually finished. They took Lijah and a scoop and backed and filled until it was leveled off.

"Oughta last a hundred years—soft water won't clog brand new pipe," said the youngest boy, hopefully.

Timely Editorial

Grade Crossing Accidents.

Some very interesting statistics have been compiled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad concerning accidents between automobiles and trains at grade crossings. They leave little doubt as to where the greater blame lies for these recurring tragedies.

Using the first half of this year as a basis, the B & O notes that in one-fourth of all grade crossing accidents it was the automobile that hit the train, and not the train that struck the car. Accidents in this category took place in many instances in spite of lowered grade crossing gates, flashing warning signs and watchmen carrying out their duties.

Significantly, the railroad reports that almost 80 per cent of all the crossing mishaps took place in broad daylight when visibility was good.—Columbus Dispatch.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Easier Said Than Done."

The statement that saying is one thing and doing another is more than proverbial—it might be called axiomatic. The common saying, "Easier said than done," about which one of our readers inquires, is the verdict of hundreds of years and an expression found in more than one tongue.

When John Bunyan wrote in "Pilgrim's Progress": "I see that saying and doing are two things, and hereafter I shall better observe this distinction," he followed by almost a century the celebrated French essayist, Montaigne, who had said: "Without doubt it is a delightful harmony when doing and saying go together."

Many centuries before the Roman dramatist, Plautus, had included in the dialogue of one of his lesser-known comedies the statement, "Such things are easier said than done."

Four Hurt In Traffic Accidents

Driver Blinded, Hits Parked Car

Four Mansfield area persons were injured slightly in two accidents Saturday afternoon. All were treated at General hospital and released.

Curtis Gravese, 119 Lafayette street, suffered lacerations of the upper chest and abrasions of the forehead; Georgia Lee Martley, 191 North Diamond street, suffered lacerations of the upper lip, forehead and right temple, and Albert Lindsey, 366 Crystal Springs street, suffered contusions of the chest and lacerations of the upper lip when the car in which they were traveling struck a parked car at 602 Bowman street.

Lindsey, driver of the car, said he was blinded by the lights of another car passing him, causing him to hit the parked car owned by Wilbert F. Moore, 602 Bowman street.

Moore's car was knocked 61 feet onto the front yard of 606 Bowman street. Lindsey's car traveled 60 feet before it stopped, police say.

The rear end, body and frame of Moore's car and the front end of Lindsey's car were damaged.

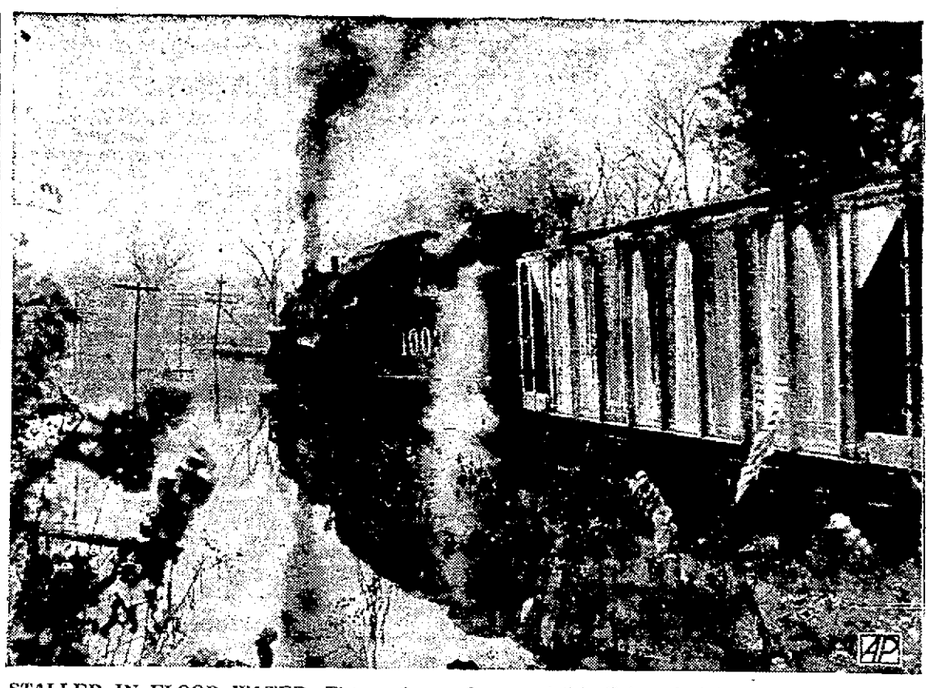
Lindsey was cited for failure to have an operator's license and unsafe operation of a motor vehicle and was ordered to appear in traffic court Oct. 26.

In the other accident, Betty Reddy, Lexington R. D. 1, suffered minor bruises when the car in which she was riding reportedly was forced to leave the road to avoid hitting another car.

Richard L. Reddy, Lexington R. D. 1, driver of the car, reported to police he was driving on Lexington avenue near Cook road when a car driven by F. Ernestine Roth, 88 Andover road, backed out of a drive and onto the street.

Reddy swerved his car, went off the road and hit a tree, damaging the front end and windshield of his car.

Roth said he did not see Reddy until he heard the sound of the brakes.



STALLED IN FLOOD WATER—The engine and cars of this Frisco freight train are mirrored in floodwaters from the Blue river after they became stalled at Kansas City, Mo. The water had receded to a mere 18 inches when this picture was made but Fireman Charles Rukes (in cab), of Clinton, Mo., said the floodwaters were still five feet over the rails 100 yards farther down the tracks. The 42-car train, made up of empty cars, was unable to move into the yards throughout the day.

UN Acts to Muffle Too-Gabby Speakers

NEW YORK — (AP) — All the United Nations assembly president will have to do now to shut up a speaker is turn a switch.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie has instructed electricians to install a master control on the president's desk. This will cut off the public address system and the simultaneous translation equipment when a speaker refuses to obey orders to stop.

3,000 Expected In Mid-East

Lower Bars For Holy Year Pilgrims

By FRED J. ZUSY

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Despite unsettled conditions, religious leaders in the Holy City are going ahead with plans to house Holy Year pilgrims to Jerusalem.

The Rev. Ibrahim Ayad, secretary and legal advisor of the Latin patriarchate - representing Pope Pius XII in the Middle East — said it is hoped to provide housing for 3,000 to 4,000 pilgrims at any given time.

He said it is hoped room can be found for about one-third that number in Jerusalem itself, and to place the others in hotels and private dwellings in nearby Jericho and Ramallah. The housing problem is complicated, however, by the crowding brought about by the influx of Arab refugees.

King Abdullah of Hashemite Jordan brightened the pilgrim outlook with a statement at Amman that he would extend "every facility possible" to those desiring to make the Holy Year pilgrimage during the 12 months starting Jan. 1.

The king told the Associated Press that in this connection he would have "no objection" to an arrangement with Israel which would permit pilgrims to cross without hindrance from Israel into Arab Palestine, or from Arab territory into Israel.

The majority of the holy places, including the major ones of the Holy Sepulchre, Mount Calvary, the Garden of Gethsemane, the Mount of Olives and Bethlehem are on the Arab side.

However, Nazareth, Galilee and Lake Tiberias — scenes of Christ's early life, first miracles and the famous sermon on the mount — are in Israeli territory.

King Abdullah said any such arrangement would extend only to bonafide pilgrims and would have to be approved by the security forces of both countries. He said he would exclude "communists, fascists and nazis" from any agreement.

The Rev. Ayad said that up to now Hashemite Jordan has refused to permit pilgrims to enter Jerusalem from the Israeli side, insisting that they come from Amman to the east.

As a consequence, Holy Year planners here have worked on the assumption that pilgrims either would have to fly in, or arrive by sea or Beirut in the Lebanon and proceed overland via Damascus, Amman and Jericho to Jerusalem.

Hashemite Jordan and Arab Palestine are landlocked. There are three available airfields in Hashemite Jordan and Arab Palestine. A fourth is proposed, King Abdullah said, between Jerusalem and Hebron.

The Rev. Ayad said one proposal is to provide certified pilgrims with a single passport visa which will admit them to the Lebanon, Syria and Hashemite Jordan. Separate visas for each are now required.

Brazilian Burros Lose Out To Jeeps

TOLEDO, O. — (UP) — The traditional burro is losing his job to the jeep in almost inaccessible parts of Brazil.

Start Survey Of Red Cross Help Needs

Start Agencies' Check Monday

A survey of city and county welfare agencies to determine how much Red Cross volunteer help they can use, gets under way today.

Announcement of the survey was made by Mrs. Max Brown, who has been appointed Red Cross chairman for the project.

When it has been determined how much volunteer service the agencies could use in promoting their welfare programs, the Red Cross then will recruit volunteers for this project, Mrs. Brown said.

The proposed project will be a part of the better correlation of welfare service which Red Cross officials hope to promote in the city and county.

"We already have about 150 volunteers working for Red Cross service," Mrs. Brown said. "As many more will be added to the list as will be needed by the 15 agencies we hope to contact."

Mrs. Brown will be assisted in this survey by a committee of Red Cross volunteers already serving the organization.

Police Upset Backward Idea

HAMILTON — (AP) — Hamilton police decided yesterday that not even a cowboy should ride a horse backwards.

Patrolmen Bev Wyatt and Don Schick were helping school children cross a street intersection when they saw a man trying to do just that. He was sitting backwards on the horse and also trying to get it to travel in reverse.

They arrested the rider—Albert Church, 24, of Covington, Ky.—on a charge of intoxication and when he gave his occupation it was—cowboy.

Many historians claim Washington State was not named for the first President of the United States but for Capt. Robert Gray's sloop.

Bud Moths Eat Prunes

BERKELEY, Calif. — (AP) — Public Enemy No. 1 around California prune orchards is getting to be the eye-spotted bud moth. Dr. Harold F. Madsen of the University of California has been keeping tables on this bug that has been sabotaging half the crop in some orchards.

Madsen says that in the larval stage it ties a leaf to a prune, then crawls under and feeds in the shade. The fruit exudes sap which cements the leaf to it and makes it a cull.

The moth long has fed on New England and Canadian apples. Madsen says it emigrated to California only ten years ago and has tried apricots and peaches, which it doesn't like, pears which it will tolerate, and apples, cherries and prunes, which it likes best. He found DDT worked best against it.

Bicycle, Auto Ornament Stolen

James Baker, 241 Richland avenue, told police someone took his bicycle from in front of the YMCA between 8 and 10 p. m. last night.

GOLDEN JUBILEE HELD BY C. L. OF C. SUNDAY

Supreme Officers and Drill Team from Columbus Attend Program, Initiation and Dinner Meeting

By OLIVE GRESMER

Mrs. John Shill, 234 Sheridan avenue, was definitely the guest of honor Sunday at the golden jubilee celebration of the Catholic Ladies of Columbia. The organization, which celebrated its 50th anniversary in Mansfield, feted Mrs. Shill, who is a charter member of the group. Two other charter members, her sisters, Miss Regina Kaiser and Miss Catherine Kaiser, were unable to be present. They were sent baskets of yellow roses.

This special event, 50 years of organization, which is uncommon in most social and philanthropic groups, was held at the K. of C. Home Sunday afternoon and evening with an attendance of 170. Included in this group were 60 out-of-town guests from Crestline, Shelby, Galion and Springfield.

During the afternoon session 38 members from Springfield, representing the drill team from the C. L. of C., initiated 35 members of the local organization, who have joined during the past 10 years.

This was followed by an informal social hour. Dinner was served at 6 p. m. at beautifully decorated tables with appointments and flowers in gold and blue. A five tiered cake, topped with a golden decoration, was served to the many guests. Mrs. Schill cut the first piece and was presented with a corsage of yellow roses.

Toastmistress for the evening program was the local president, Mrs. John Schweitzer. Group singing was enjoyed at the dinner table, when the assembled members sang familiar old refrains. They were accompanied by Mrs. John Charles. Jerry Hanley, tenor, favored with Irish melodies, with accordion accompaniment. Students from the Margaret Speas Studio also entertained.

Msgr. R. C. Geobel addressed the group on "The Catholic Woman the Strong Woman". He stressed the fact that the pioneer women of the organization had built a sturdy council and still had time and strength for worthwhil activities of the church.

Mrs. R. C. Straub gave a history of Council, No. 43. The closing address was given by Mrs. Helen M. Doyle of Springfield, supreme president, who gave a most interesting talk on the organization of the C. L. of C., and gave her tribute to the council which had been active for the past 50 years.

The C. L. of C. was formed in Toledo 56 years ago and Mansfield council is the 43rd organization in the state. There were 20 charter members.

Officers of the St. Helena Council, No. 43, include: Mrs. John Schweitzer, president; Mrs. Louis Murphy, vice president; Mrs. James Herlihy, treasurer; Mrs. Michael Vogel, financial secretary; Mrs. Joseph Pilot, recording secretary; Mrs. Vincent Montgomery, Minitor, Mrs. Herbert Dillon, guard; Mrs. Raymond Straub, Mrs. Joseph Seibert, and Mrs. Thomas Dillon, trustees.

LOCAL OFFICERS AND GUEST—Admiring the beautiful cake which was served at the Golden Jubilee dinner last evening at the C. L. of C. party, are Mrs. Louis Murphy, vice-president of the local organization; Msgr. R. C. Goebel, and Mrs. John Schweitzer, president here.

John G. Tammen Weds Newark Girl In Home Rite Sunday

Announcement is being made of the nuptials of Miss Jane Helen Camlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William John Camlin of Newark, to John George Tammen, 381 Park avenue west, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Tammen, of Short Hills, N. J.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride, Sunday, with Rev. Thomas Simpson, pastor of the Episcopal church in Newark, officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a candle-light slipper satin gown fashioned with a yoke of Venetian lace trimmed with seed pearls. The gown was princess style ending in a full train. For her headpiece, the bride wore a tulle veil, finger-tip length, held by a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried an arrangement of white and tube roses.

The bride's sister, Mr. Vernon Cooke, served as matron of honor in a dusty pink slipper satin gown fashioned with cap sleeves, a square neckline and cumberbund over a full skirt. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Tammen, a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Shirley Love and Miss Martha Lou Morgan, whose dresses, fashioned like that of the matron of honor, were in grey - green slipper satin.

The matron of honor carried pink roses while the other attendants carried red roses.

Edwin R. Roberts, served the bridegroom as best man. George Cassidy, Vernon Cooke and Philip Ward, served as ushers.

Mrs. Camlin chose for her daughter's wedding a slate blue crepe gown with a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a brown imported lace frock. A yellow rose corsage completed her costume.

A reception for 160 guests was held at the bride's home following the ceremony. Chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the home. Those assisting in the serving were Mrs. Philip Ward, Mrs. Everett Albyn, Mrs. Edwin Roberts and Mrs. John Mantanya.

For traveling to North Carolina for a wedding trip, Mrs. Tammen wore a brown glen plaid suit with matching hat, mink scarf and brown accessories. A white rose corsage trimmed her suit.

She is a graduate of Denison university where she was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Mr. Tammen is a graduate of Cornell university where he received his degree in civil engineering. He is affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. In Mansfield he is a member of the University club and the Westbrook Country Club.

Fall Desserts Mean Team-Up Of Good Foods

The first early frost and cool days always call for warm desserts. The oven may be used more often for many types of baking. Appetites are keener. . . and what is more satisfying than gingerbread with applesauce topping? Fortified margarine with its consistent amount of vitamin A is an ideal fat for baking gingerbread and other desserts requiring a sweet-tasting, plastic shortening.

GINGERBREAD

1¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon ginger
½ cup molasses
½ cup warm water
1/3 cup fortified margarine
¼ cup sugar
1 egg

Measure the flour, baking powder, soda, salt, and spices. Sift all these dry ingredients together. Stir molasses and water together. Cream the margarine and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Now add dry ingredients alternately with liquid, adding one-third the amount at a time. Beat after each addition. Pour into a greased square pan 8"x8"x2" or a round 9" pan. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (325 degrees to 375 degrees F.) for 25 to 35 minutes or until done. Serve warm or cold. Recipe serves eight.

SPICY TOPPING

1 cup applesauce
¼ cup raisins
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons fortified margarine

Mix all ingredients together and heat thoroughly. Serve warm on gingerbread.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, October 25
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

WHILE the general trend of events may be read as fortunate favoring all public, business and private relations and objectives, yet the purely personal element seems to engage maior attention. Romance, love affairs, social and cultural functions, domestic and intimate consideraton may relegate other interests into the background. Pleasure, charm, beauty, ideals, home and all activities concerning such, may encounter opposition, with undertones of intrigue, subtlety, enmity.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may feel disposed to concentrate interest and activities on affairs of a purely personal, social or domestic character, with unusual and intriguing factors in this direction. While the faculties, forces, energies and talents may be centered on the pursuit of pleasure, romance, ideals or kindred matters, outside the realm of the practical and objective, yet there may be certain frustrations, impediments, or stubborn opposition, either at the "hands of fate" or from a more tangible source such as elders, superiors, or teachers.

A child born on this day may be gracious, versatile, charming, probably impractical, governed by ideals rather than facts.

"Now be very careful of the colors and hand-press the pleats. The buttons must be removed before cleaning"

Walter Lippmann

Paris Holds Secret Of Reich's Future

BONN, Germany—In a preceding article, dealing with Germany, I reported the reasons which seem to me to justify the view that the Adenauer government at Bonn is committed to a good European policy.

In this article I shall venture to define what seem to me now some of the main elements of the problem that lies open for a constructive solution.

The Bonn government can succeed only if it can resolve the partition of Germany, the conflict with France and the conflict with Poland.

It is, I believe, fantastic to think that it can live long as a free and civilized state if the military partition of Germany continues, if West Germany were treated as a military bastion, if it cannot come to a settlement within itself and with its neighbors.

Those who think along the line of perament military partiuon—and there are some though not so many as there were—have not yet distinguished between cold war and beating the tom-toms in a war dance.

In approaching the three paramount issues the partition, the Franco-German and the German-Polish conflicts—the order of business is, it seems to me, something like this:

Washington, in consultation with London and Paris and then with Bonn could promote a settlement of the Franco-German questions within the framework of a new European system.

Within that framework the question of the Saar should become soluble by creating the Saar as a kind of Luxemburg affiliated both with France and Germany as a small principality in the European system.

A settlement of this sort—of the only serious territorial issue in the west—could be the occasion and the inducement to the settlement of such troublesome but transitory questions as reparations and dismantling.

BETTER RELATIONS

The development of a Franco-German understanding — indeed of a Franco-German peace—will fortify immensely, in the good sense of the word, the Bonn government in its relations with the East German government which has just been set up in East Berlin.

It would be a great error I feel sure to regard the East German government as a mere fraud with which there can be no relations.

There are bound to be relations between the two parts of Germany, and if they are not developed openly and consciously they will surely develop underground by sinister intrigue and in the end by wild agitation.

* * *

In the momentous negotiations which that will entail the strength and the attractiveness of the West German government will be greatly enhanced in so far as it can come forward as a government which has already made peace with the west—particularly with France—and has already brought the Germans back into the world community.

Therefore Dr. Adenauer must be helped to go to Paris in order that he may go to Berlin.

Says Chickens Need 13 Hours of Light

LINCOLN, Neb — (UP) — Farmers who want to increase egg production should organize their farms and give their chickens more "overtime."

Extension poultryman W. F. Aubol of the University of Nebraska said hens should have about 13 hours of light in the chicken house daily, regardless of when the sun goes down.

They should get time and a half in feed and water for their overtime work, he said.

Loudonville Hires Counsel In Phone Rate Fight

Columbus Attorneys Accept Case

Service Basis Of Opposition

LOUDONVILLE — Emergency legislation was passed by council here last week to retain a Columbus legal firm to fight the proposed telephone rate increases in this area. Myron D. Oliver, city solicitor, is working the firm to file a protest with the Ohio Public Utilities commission before the Oct. 23, deadline.

Local civic organizations are making up a fund to be used to retain the firm of Davies and Davies. John Davies sr., is assisting Oliver in preparing the protest and said the fight will center on the poor service offered by the Northern Ohio Telephone company.

A delegation comprising Ronald Farquhar and Donald Fulmer, of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; Ed Raby of the Chamber of Commerce; Homer Gorrell, council representative, and City Solicitor Oliver went to Columbus to secure the services of the counselors.

All 1,266 subscribers of this area phone exchange this week will receive letters asking for $2 donations each to meet the cost of the legal assistance. The letters will be delivered to the local high school commercial room today for typing and addressing. They will be enclosed in envelopes and mailed soon as completed.

Council's finance committee was made a publicity unit to inform the public of the need for the renewal of the one mill school levy beyond the 10 mill limitation. The levy has been in effect for general operating expenses for the past nine years but comes up for renewal every three years. Supporters contend its passage will not increase present rate taxes.

Galion Shrine Circus Profit Given Temple

GALION — The sum of $717.17 which was cleared from the Shrine Circus presented in Galion last May was turned over to the Aladdin Temple of Columbus, Friday night by L. A. Cline, president of the Galion Shrine club.

A check in that amount was presented to Ray Lewis, potentate of the Aladdin Temple. It will be turned over to the Aladdin Cripple Children's Hospital association, and will be used in the treatment of cases at Children's hospital, Columbus.

During the past summer, two local cases were treated and benefitted from the treatment, Shrine club members state.

Emphasis, throughout the program, will be on attractive easy - to-make foods to win guest approval and stretch the family budget. Miss Logan, a shortening expert, brings with her successful "know how" on all phases of deep fat frying, pastry making and cake baking.

Miss Logan will prepare a peanut butter filled glazed coffee cake made with a homemade biscuit mix base. "Make the mix in quantity and then store it in the refrigerator until ready to use," suggests Miss Logan who varies the mix for a number of different entrees and desserts.

To illustrate her simplified techniques of deep fat frying, French fried onion rings and tea doughnuts will be prepared. The same frying fat will be used as the shortening in fudge brownies to be prepared later in the program. According to Miss Logan, there will be no carry-over of flavor to the baked products.

Complete recipe information in the form of a new booklet, "Fascinating Foods", will be distributed to the homemakers in attendance.

As a member of Swift and Company's home economics division, Miss Logan acts as a consultant on the women's viewpoint in operating and planning departments of the company.
